

Behavior-matched openings raise harm with length; wrong-behavior openings do not

Matched — mismatched gap grows 0.05 → 0.92 across N (paired Wilcoxon $p=0.0001$, $n=89$).

Neutral (dashed) is a truncation artifact: cutting one benign template mid-phrase ("Here is..." / "step-by...") forces a harmful completion — not a stable baseline.